

Global Matters Weekly

12 Jan 2026

You must be Caracas

Alex Harvey, CFA

Source: Momentum Global Investment Management, Bloomberg Finance L.P. Data to 09 January 2026.

What this chart shows

The chart shows the price of the US dollar denominated Venezuela 9.25% Sep 2027 bond over the last three months. This bond, along with Venezuela's other international sovereign bonds and those issued by proxy sovereign issuers such as Petróleos de Venezuela (PDVSA) – the state owned oil and gas company – has been in default since late 2017 when the state failed to pay coupons payable under its debt obligations. The chart shows the marked uplift in price when trading in its already defaulted debt resumed last Monday following the dramatic capture and extraction of President Nicolas Maduro and his wife by US forces. The bonds rose ~35% on the day. Just a few years ago these bonds were trading at just a few cents on the dollar. For the brave folk that picked them up at those levels returns will have been considerable.

Why this is important

The sharp change in price is a reflection of better expectations for the eventual settlement terms on the defaulted debt. These bonds – or the claims on them – are traded only amongst a small handful of specialist funds that have deep pockets and a lot of patience. They are often prepared to wait many years and fund lengthy and expensive legal processes in order to extract a return. For that reason, and the risk that they may not see any return on their capital, the return expectations need to be high to justify the investment.

More broadly it could be argued this is a reflection on eventual regime change in Venezuela. At this stage no one really knows how the local politics will evolve, and who the eventual key players will be. For now, Vice President Delcy Rodriguez walks a fine line as she looks to balance the interests of the US, local military chiefs and various guerrilla groups. A smooth transition to a new government and petrodollars flowing into government coffers raises the prospect of further bond returns. But previous US incursions into oil rich countries might bode less well.

Global Matters Weekly

12 Jan 2026

For more information, please contact your adviser or alternatively contact:

Belvest Investment Services Limited
研富投資服務有限公司
9th Floor, Centre Mark II
305-313 Queen's Road Central
Sheung Wan, Hong Kong

Tel +852 2827 1199
Fax +852 2827 0270
belvest@bis.hk
www.bis.hk

Important notes

This communication is issued by Belvest Investment Services Limited and/or Belvest related companies (collectively, and individually Belvest) solely to its clients, qualified prospective clients or institutional and professional investors. Unless stated otherwise, any opinions or views expressed in this communication do not represent those of Belvest. Opinions or views of any Belvest company expressed in this communication may differ from those of other departments or companies within Belvest, including any opinions or views expressed in any research issued by Belvest. Belvest may deal as Distributor or Agent, or have interests, in any financial product referred to in this email. Belvest has policies designed to negate conflicts of interest. Unless otherwise stated, this e-mail is solely for information purposes.

This message may contain confidential information. Any use, dissemination, distribution or reproduction of this information outside the original recipients of this message is strictly prohibited. If you receive this message by mistake, please notify the sender by reply email immediately.

Unless specifically stated, neither the information nor any opinion contained herein constitutes as an advertisement, an invitation, a solicitation, a recommendation or advise to buy or sell any products, services, securities, futures, options, other financial instruments or provide any investment advice or service by Belvest.

No representation or warranty is given as to the accuracy, likelihood of achievement or reasonableness of any figures, forecasts, prospects or return (if any) contained in the message. Such figures, forecasts, prospects or returns are by their nature subject to significant uncertainties and contingencies. The assumptions and parameters used by Belvest are not the only ones that might reasonably have been selected and therefor Belvest does not guarantee the sequence, accuracy, completeness or timeliness of the information provided herein. None of Belvest, its group members or any of their employees or directors shall be held liable, in any way, for any claims, mistakes, errors or otherwise arising out of or in connection with the content of this e-mail.

This e-mail and any accompanying attachments are not encrypted and cannot be guaranteed to be secure, complete or error-free as electronic communications may be intercepted, corrupted, lost, destroyed, delayed or incomplete, and/or may contain viruses. Belvest therefore does not accept any liability for any interception, corruption, loss, destruction, incompleteness, viruses, errors, omissions or delays in relation to this electronic communication. If verification is required please request a hard-copy version. Electronic communication carried within the Belvest system may be monitored.